

To ensure the success of our customers, Cyclic Design will provide consulting and guidance on the implementation and verification of designs using our intellectual property as part of the base license. Ideally this involves working directly with the engineers responsible for the associated logic to ensure their understanding of the interfaces to and operation of Cyclic Design IP blocks. Additionally, Cyclic Design is available to consult or contract, if desired, for more extensive work in areas such as high-level architecture, logic design, testbench/stimulus generation, and verification IP.

Cyclic Design will also consider requests to develop IP in other areas. For more information, contact consulting@cyclicdesign.com .
